The History of Chocolate · Preguntas 9 a 14

Chocolate is one of the most popular treats in the world. It is made from the seeds of the cacao tree, which first grew in the rainforests of Central and South America. Today, the country that produces the most cacao is Ivory Coast, in Africa, followed by Ghana and then Indonesia.

People love chocolate because it tastes sweet and it gives you quick energy. Making a simple chocolate drink is not difficult: you only need cacao, sugar and warm milk. For this reason, hot chocolate became a favourite drink in many cold countries.

The Maya and the Aztecs drank chocolate long before Europeans did. They mixed it with water and spices, but they did not add sugar. Some people say that the explorer Christopher Columbus made chocolate famous in Europe, but this is not true. It was the Spanish who took cacao to Spain in the 16th century and added sugar to it.

When chocolate arrived in Europe, both rich families and, later, ordinary people enjoyed it. Although many people only know about sweet chocolate bars, there are hundreds of recipes, and chocolate is used in cakes, drinks and sauces. Good chocolate has few ingredients, so it can be stored for a long time.

Reading Every Day · Preguntas 15 a 19

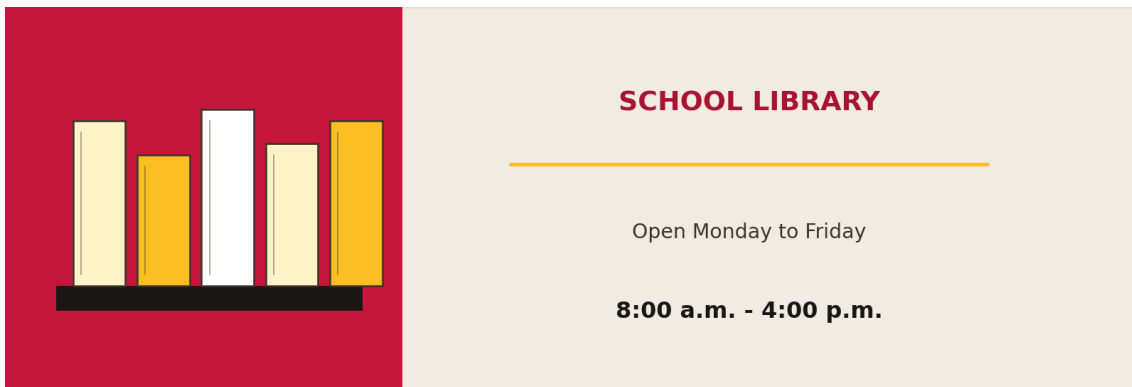

Reading every day has many benefits. People who read regularly can improve their memory and their imagination. Unfortunately, many young people do not read enough. It is a good idea to read more often in order to learn and to relax. Here are some reasons to read more often.

Reading brings benefits to the mind. It increases your vocabulary and helps you understand new ideas. Besides, reading before sleeping helps you rest better; combined with a quiet room, reading can make you feel calm and ready for the next day. Reading also helps you concentrate for longer periods of time.

There are emotional benefits to reading frequently, too. A good story can take you to other places almost immediately. Sometimes, when we feel worried, we find that a book helps us forget our problems for a while. Reading can also reduce stress, because the mind focuses on the story.

Reading more often can also make you a better student. In general, people who read well understand their classes more easily and write better. Reading in front of others, such as in a club, shows you enjoy learning, and you can share that feeling with them. People are naturally interested in good readers; therefore, reading frequently can help you make new friends.

If you don't read much, find ways to read more often; try to make others read more too. Reading is a simple way to grow. Learning and helping others learn is very positive and will bring many benefits. Although it seems difficult at first, it is in fact very easy; all it takes is opening a book and a few quiet minutes.
